

DAN KEEN is Assistant Vice President – Policy and Economic Analysis with the Association of American Railroads. Among other duties, he is responsible for producing background papers and testimony on various freight railroad economic and policy issues. He also compiles statistical data on rail financial and operational matters and is responsible for Rail Time Indicators, a monthly publication that combines rail traffic data with current economic information. Dan has been with the AAR since 1993. Dan is a graduate of Dartmouth College and Johns Hopkins University.