

THOMAS K. TEGARDEN, President of Tegarden & Associates, Inc., is a graduate of Middle Tennessee State University and holds the MAI and CAE professional appraisal designations. He is a Certified General Appraiser in the States of Tennessee & Minnesota. Mr. Tegarden has been a Senior Instructor for the International Association of Assessing Officers (34 years), and he is one of the authors of the current IAAO basic courses, as well as a contributor to their current textbooks. He is the author and primary instructor of the copyrighted Public Utility Basic Appraisal Course, a one-week intensive course in the appraisal of public utility and railroad property. His appraisal career spans 51 years and for the last 31 years he has been in charge of the Principles Section of the annual Appraisal for Ad Valorem Taxation of Communication, Energy, and Transportation Properties workshop at Wichita State University. Mr. Tegarden formerly was the Assistant Director of Assessments for the Tennessee Public Service Commission (15 years). In 1983, he started his own appraisal firm, Tegarden & Associates, Inc. The firm serves numerous state, county, and city government clients from Florida in the Southeast to Canada and the North Slope of Alaska in the Northwest and several public utility companies as well. The firm does not restrict its services to taxing authorities or taxpayers, rather, appraisal and consulting services are provided to all clients. He has been published in the Appraisal Journal, Public Utilities Fortnightly, Assessment Digest, Journal of Property Tax Management, Property Tax Journal, and Journal of Property Tax Assessment & Administration.
